

Pioneer Victorian Cemetery Celebrates 150 Years

Ever wondered how pioneer Clevelanders lived, worked and settled the area we now live in? Come hear the stories of the people who settled this great City and how they accomplished spectacular things when Euclid Avenue was a dirt road still covered with tree stumps, boys worked at ridding the area of rattle snakes, how the first schools in the area were started and many more intriguing stories.

Walking tours of the cemetery will be offered free of charge to the public. One of our more infamous residents, George Watkins, will be portrayed and his life story told by local actor, Robert Keefe.
